What really turns you on?

Good kissing and a great sense of humor. You've gotta be able to laugh at yourself. If you don't, I will. Ha ha.

Would you hook up with Tyrion Lannister from Game of Thrones?

If he looked like Peter Dinklage, hell yes, I would!

What's the craziest place you've ever had sex?

Umm, does a billboard count? I had sex with my ex on a billboard after completing a graffiti piece. Now that I think about it, though, that's not the craziest. The craziest was in a booth at The Box, a club in NYC, just after I performed, while people partied around us.

When it comes to sex, what gets you off better: oral or penetration?

Why should I choose one or the other? Both are great. It all depends on my partner.

A lot of stars have been writing books about their lives and their work in porn. Would you ever consider writing a tell-all?

The real question is would anyone give a shit? (Giggles like a maniac.) I might, though.

You've been in the adult industry for more than 10 years. What is it about porn that's kept you around for so long? Do you think you'll still be doing porn in another 10 years?

The sexy ladies keep me around. Duh! No, just kidding. But for a very long time, if I wanted to have sex with a lady, work was the only avenue. Thankfully, that's changed. And as long as fans wanna see me shag, I'll keep on shagging.

You tweet a lot about eating healthy and drinking juice and tea. When you need a break from that, what's your go-to junk food?

In-N-Out Burger. Or chocolate lava cakes from Trader Joe's.

When you got into porn, did you ever plan to do boy-girl, or did you always plan to be a girl-girl only performer? Why?

I created a plan for my career about three years after it started. Ha ha. Doing boy-girl is something I like to flirt with in my mind, but to be honest, I'd only do it with my husband, and at some point it would become boring for the fans to see me getting railed by the same dude all the time. And because I adore not having to cater to fans whilst I take cock in private, I'm gonna keep it that way. For me, taking cock on film would be taking away from my private life.

Considering you have multiple partners, do you ever need to masturbate? Do you prefer to do it with a toy or by hand?

I don't NEED to masturbate, I just do. Ha ha. I use my Hitachi and, bing bang boom, I'm on my way!

Who has been your burlesque role model?

I have several: Rosewood, Deity Delgado, Nasty Canasta, Stormy Leather, Evelyn Vinyl, Gal Friday and many more. Each and every single lady on this list has shaped me as a performer.

You're a self-proclaimed geek. What's your geekiest guilty pleasure?

Getting stoned and playing a Lego game on my PlayStation 3.

You grew up in St. Louis, Missouri. What was it like going from St. Louis to living in places like LA and New York?

Culture shock. I grew up in one of the oldest cities in America. Gateway to the Midwest and all. So California was overwhelming at first. But not only did I become accustomed to it, I began to love how different things were. Learning how to live somewhere new became almost a game as I moved around to different cities after that.
